

North Dakota Tobacco-Free Parks

More North Dakota communities are following a national trend of going tobacco-free in their public parks. Tobacco-free parks are cleaner, greener, and safer places for families to enjoy healthy recreation. Tobacco-free parks set an example that will keep the next generation free from all forms of tobacco. Currently, 64 cities and counties in North Dakota have a tobacco-free park policy. If you would like to help make your parks tobacco-free, visit <https://www.hhs.nd.gov/health/community/tobacco/local-programs>.
